Career Services & Workforce Development

At Wilmington College, Hands-on living and Hands-on learning means we are committed to helping you define a unique vision for your career and life from your first semester on campus until retirement! Making connections between the work you are doing in your classes to career opportunities beyond the classroom, we strive to connect you in diverse and personalized ways with the people, organizations, skills, and opportunities to make your unique vision a reality. Career advising, resume writing, internships and networking opportunities are just a few of the ways the Office of Career Services & Workforce Development is here to help you!

RESOURCES

ID170 Professional Development Seminar

This 2-credit hour foundational course is designed for first year students and may be taken during the second 8-week abbreviated session this fall. We'll cover your unique personality and interests, ensure alignment with the right major, practice up on the soft skills employers are looking for, create resumes and portfolios to showcase your talents, dive into career exploration, learn how to execute a successful job search, and set strategies for life-long professional growth.

Personalized Advising

From personality and skills assessments to resume writing and job searches, and graduate school applications, we offer advising tailored to your background, education, and goals. Appointments are offered in person or virtually.

FOCUS 2

A comprehensive career planning platform providing work interest, values, personality, and skills assessments to help guide you in making the most of your time here. Linking to Wilmington College majors and Bureau of Labor Statistics career field growth projections through 2034, FOCUS II can help you plan for the fulfilling professional future you want.

Internships

In close collaboration with your professors and employers, we help guide you through the internship search and completion process to ensure you're getting the right hands-on experiences you need.

Work-Study Employment

The Career Services and Workforce Development Office can help you find work study jobs on campus, and in the community that complements your academic program and provides valuable professional experience on and off campus.

Handshake

All students automatically get access to our online career platform where all Wilmington College student jobs are posted, and hundreds of employers from around the region, across the country, and across the globe post open jobs and internship opportunities. You can register for career fairs, open interviews, and so much more on Handshake.

Career, Graduate School, and Internship Fairs

We host at least one large fair each year where approximately 60 employers and graduate schools show up ready to talk about open positions and programs. Some offer on-the-spot interviews.

Networking Events

Our office is continually meeting with local and regional employers to identify opportunities for students. Faculty and staff are well-connected and routinely host a variety of activities with professional partners throughout the academic year.
